

PhD Literature Review

Jonathan Carlton

School of Computer Science
University of Manchester

`jonathan.carlton@postgrad.manchester.ac.uk`

1 Introduction

Adding a test bit of content for the sake of github [Missier et al., 2017]

2 Interaction

Now what happens when we put this reference in [Apaolaza et al., 2015]

3 Engagement

4 Sequential Data Mining (plus others(?))

References

- Apaolaza et al., 2015. Apaolaza, A., Harper, S., and Jay, C. (2015). Longitudinal analysis of low-level web interaction through micro behaviours. In Proceedings of the 26th ACM Conference on Hypertext & Social Media, pages 337–340. ACM.
- Missier et al., 2017. Missier, P., McClean, C., Carlton, J., Cedrim, D., Silva, L., Garcia, A., Plastino, A., and Romanovsky, A. (2017). Recruiting from the network: discovering twitter users who can help combat zika epidemics. In International Conference on Web Engineering, pages 437–445. Springer.